The UCI Education Research Initiative will address the low success rates for individuals hoping to pursue degrees in higher education, particularly underrepresented minorities, first-generation, and low income students.

To address this challenge, the initiative will support multi-disciplinary research that advances knowledge about innovative educational interventions and policies to better support student learning and success in higher education.

Specifically, the initiative will:

- Foster research collaborations on postsecondary educational interventions and policies
- Provide resources & funding for adopting evidence-based interventions and practices
- Engage local & national education community through workshops, seminars, and annual conferences
- Engage graduate students in educational research

Interested in Collaborating?

Contact:
educationresearch@uci.edu

Dr. Brian Sato
Initiative Director

Dr. Di Xu
Co-Director

Dr. Natascha Buswell
Co-Director

For more information, visit EducationResearch.uci.edu